WHO IS DR. COLORADO?

Thomas J. "Dr. Colorado" Noel, a Professor of History and Director of Public History, Preservation & Colorado Studies at CU-Denver, is the author of numerous books, articles and columns.

Tom is a graduate of CU-Denver and CU-Boulder, where his mother (a psychiatrist) and grandmother (a teacher) also completed graduate work.

Among Tom's works are Colorado: A History (Univ. Press of Colorado, 2005); Riding High: Colorado Ranchers & 100 years of the National Western Stockshow (Fulcrum, 2005); Sacred Stones: Colorado's Red Rocks Park & Amphitheatre (City & County of Denver, 2004); Buildings of Colorado (Oxford Univ. Press, 1997); Colorado: A Liquid History & Tavern Guide to the Highest State (Fulcrum, 1999); Historical Atlas of Colorado (Oklahoma Univ. Press, 1993); and Denver: Mining Camp to Metropolis (Univ. Press of Colorado, 1990)

Tom teaches Denver, Colorado, Western U.S., and Public History courses at CU-Denver, as well as conducting tours of the highest state and the Mile High City for the Smithsonian Institute, the Colorado History Museum, the Denver Museum of Natural History, and Historic Denver, Inc.

Tom appears as Dr. Colorado in the Saturday Rocky Mountain News / Denver Post and on Channel 9 "Colorado & Company".

7:30 a.m. – 8:30 a.m.

Welcome

8:30 a.m. – 9:00 a.m.

by Jody Georgeson, President; Society of Rocky Mountain Archivists.

Melanie Sturgeon, President; Conference of Inter-Mountain Archivists.

State Archives Panel Discussion

9:00 a.m. – 10:30 a.m.

This panel group will focus on the lobbying efforts in the various member states. The State Archivists from Utah, Colorado, Arizona, Wyoming, and New Mexico are scheduled to appear.

Break Out Session 1

Stretched Thin and Pulled in Many Directions:
The Challenges of Tackling the Details of Archives in a World that Doesn't Value the Work We Love to Do

10:45 a.m. – 12:15 p.m.

Participants: Todd Ellison, Monte Kniffen, Steve Fisher, and Duncan McCollum

This session will present this conundrum, and suggestions for how we as archivists can not only accept but actually embrace the new hats we must wear, so that our archival programs will survive.

And, it will include ideas for how to continue to do the arrangement and description that are so largely the underpinning of an archival program.

Herding Cats and Getting Your Ducks in a Row:
The Creation of a Web-based Workflow System for Archives and Special Collection Libraries

10:45 a.m. – 12:15 p.m.

Participants: Brad Westwood, Gordon Daines, John Murphy, and Cory Nimer

The Integrated Digital Special Collections (INDI) system is an open source, database driven application designed to automate and manage archival workflow for large institutions and consortia. Developed by BYU, Provo, INDI is a complex program for managing projects and tasks across multiple locations.

Break Out Session 3

Automated Retrieval Systems

8:30 a.m. – 10:00 a.m.

Participants: Walter Jones, panel to be announced.

Panelists will address topics related to planning, constructing, organizing and living with automated retrieval systems. They will address the pros and cons of this new technology.

Food for Thought: Archivists at Work in Colorado Springs

8:30 a.m. – 10:00 a.m.

Participants: Jesse Randall, Tim Blevins, Leah Davis Witherow

Three 30 minute mini-sessions will present a picture of archival work being conducted in Colorado Springs.

1. Today, Web access to records and other archival information makes researching primary resources overwhelmingly convenient. Beware! Researchers may not realize that convenience may come with the sacrifice of good scholarship.
2. Building a regional culinary history collection is rewarding and easy (read: inexpensive).
3. An interesting case study regarding the impact of individuals on collection development and historic preservation.

Break Out Session 4

Dilemmas for Small Libraries and Archives

10:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.

Participants: Randy Christensen, Janet Seegmiller, Paula Mitchell

Archivists at small institutions have a variety of digitization tools available to present their holdings to the public. This session will focus on two of these-CONTENTdm and EAD. What are they designed to do? What is their basic structure? What are the advantages and disadvantages of each? Are they mutually exclusive? How can digitization projects be funded? The presenters will share their recent experiences with the Michael O. Leavitt Online Archive and the Howard R. Driggs Collection. Online delivery at the item level is a special feature of these collections' registers.
